

Traumatic Brain Injuries

There are many different types of brain injuries such as concussions, brain contusions, brain bleeds, penetrating brain injuries, anoxic brain injuries, diffuse axonal injuries known as DAI, and hypoxic brain injuries to name a few. Brain injuries can be mild, moderate, or severe. Unlike other types of injuries, it is not always obvious when a person is suffering from a brain injury. Often referred to as “invisible injuries” brain injuries typically manifest themselves as cognitive, emotional or behavioural symptoms, and cannot be seen from outward appearance. Nevertheless, these injuries can have a devastating impact on someone’s life and the lives of the people around them.

Cases involving head injuries or traumatic brain injuries require an experienced team that consists of both medical and legal professionals to ensure the injured person receives the treatment they need. McKenzie Lake Lawyers can help. Our firm will advocate for your rehabilitation and care needs as well as fair compensation.
