Catherine's Biography

Catherine has dedicated her practice to helping those who have suffered life changing injuries because she has seen, through a close family member's struggles, the devastating effects of such injuries. Catherine has witnessed the physical and emotional toll it takes on the injured person and their families. Her job is to help put families back together after these tragic events.

Catherine's passion for helping others is fueled by the injustices that injured victims and their families face. She believes in a results based practice that is built upon advocating for human values, fairness, and justice.

She is a strong advocate for others. She is proud of the work she has done and continues to do to help others through reasoned and definitive outcomes. Catherine is proud of the support she has provided to countless families facing some of their most difficult periods.

Outside of the office, Catherine is a mom, wife, dog mom, and wellness enthusiast. She has created a mental health podcast for lawyers and believes deeply in giving back to the community in which she lives and the professional community. In her pursuits she's an advocate for women and children and believes firmly in advocating for their rights both inside and outside of a litigation
