Maddison' s Biography

Maddison Watson helps people through some of life's most challenging moments. As a lawyer in the Personal Injury & Disability Law Practice Group, she focuses on nursing home negligence, motor vehicle accidents, including accident benefits claims and disputes, slip and fall injuries, general negligence claims, and disability matters. Maddison is especially passionate about supporting seniors and their families, working tirelessly to protect their rights and ensure they receive the care and compensation they deserve.

Her clients appreciate her approachable style and clear communication. Maddison understands how overwhelming an injury claim can feel, and she strives to make the process as smooth and stress-free as possible.

Maddison earned her law degree from the University of Windsor after completing an Honours Bachelor of Arts in Criminal Justice and Public Policy at the University of Guelph. She is proud to serve as a Board Director for The Nightingale Centre for Grieving Children and Youth and enjoys giving back to her community. When she's not practicing law, Maddison loves cooking, watching golf, and spending time with her friends, family, and her dog, Archie.
