Medical Malpractice

Have you or a loved one suffered harm due to the negligence of a health practitioner?

Medical malpractice occurs when an individual suffers harm due to the negligence, errors or omissions of a health practitioner, including doctors, anaesthesiologists, dentists, nurses, chiropractors, and other health practitioners. As Canadians, we enjoy a safe and robust medical system; however, mistakes still can and do happen. Unfortunately, sometimes those mistakes result in significant harm to a patient, such as severe injury or even death.

Medical negligence can occur in many forms, including:

- Misdiagnosis, late diagnosis or failure to diagnose

- Surgical error

- Birth trauma

- Anaesthetic error

- Hospital negligence

- Pharmaceutical error

- Medical device failure

If you or a loved one have suffered harm due to the potential negligence, errors or omissions of a health practitioner, contact us to discuss your options. It is important that you choose a medical malpractice lawyer with experience. Medical malpractice lawsuits are complex and lengthy and vigorously defended. We thoroughly screen all potential medical negligence claims to ensure that you have a viable claim prior to proceeding with litigation.

When you have a legal matter and need to hire a lawyer, you may be able to pay for these services on a contingency basis. That means you only pay legal fees if you receive money because your case wins or you get a negotiated settlement. Please see our Contingency Fee section for answers to frequently asked questions and see each lawyer's individual biography for their maximum contingency fee rates.
