

Product Liability

If an individual is harmed by an unsafe product, they may have a legal case against the person or company who designed, manufactured, or sold the product to them.

Products that are dangerous must be sold with appropriate warnings and information that allow consumers to make informed decisions regarding the use of the product. False, misleading, or incomplete warnings may give rise to legal liability.

McKenzie Lake lawyers have experience dealing with many product liability cases, including those involved with:

- pharmaceuticals;
- medical devices; and
- motor vehicles.

Our lawyers will work with you to achieve appropriate compensation for injuries or other losses suffered due to unsafe or defective products.

When you have a legal matter and need to hire a lawyer, you may be able to pay for these services on a contingency basis. That means you only pay legal fees if you receive money because your case wins or you get a negotiated settlement. Please see our Contingency Fee section for answers to frequently asked questions and see each lawyer's individual biography for their maximum contingency fee rates.
